PRICE, FIVE CENTS

Tells of Big Blaze When Borough Had Two Fire Companies and One Fire Plug

Balcynar Rotarians Hear Life of Gene Davis, Narberth Ball Club Pilot

PRAISES BOROUGH SPIRIT

How Narberth's most spectacular blaze tied up Main Line trains all night, and left two Philadelphia fire engines floundering in snow drifts, was one of the incidents told the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club Tuesday by Gene Davis, manager of Narberth's ball team.

Required to give his life history, he said that his first Main Line residence was for a few months at the home of his uncle at Cyclers' Rest, northwest corner Montgomery and Essex avenues, where cyclists from Philadelphia stopped for refreshments.

The big fire took place in 1901, when Gene was five. His father, Howard E. Davis, operated at that time a milk delivery route, with home and stables on Haverford avenue, between Narberth and Forest avenues. In the same block was Brindley's old-style grocery store, with raised steps and sawdust on the floor. It caught fire one winter night when a 60-mile gale was whipping snow down in blizzard proportions.

Although there were two rivals fire companies in Narberth at that time, the community had only one fire plug. It was on the south side of the railroad, in front of the old Baptist Church, corner Narberth and Elmwood avenues. Railroad traffic east and west on the Main Line was halted all night by the hose across the tracks.

Ardmore and Bryn Mawr fire engines helped fight the blaze, but two pieces of apparatus from Philadelphia were stalled in snow drifts, on the way out. The firemen prevented the flames from destroying Davis property, but the store smoldered for days, and was gutted.

On its site rose the Y. M. C. A. building, still standing, although now changed into stores, where Gene took his first interest in sports. Three members of his basketball team became captains of college quintets.

Gene attended Narberth's grade school and later Central High School. Then he went in for professional baseball in South Jersey until 1916, when he worked for Autocar at Ardmore for four years. Since 1920 he has been associated with his father at Davis' Store, which has expanded twice.

Four years ago Gene was made manager of Narberth's ball team, which he has successfully piloted through Main Line and other championships.

"I don't know of any other town on the Main Line that supports its baseball team like Narberth," he declared. He praised Borough Council and Narberth's Recreation Board for co-operation in maintaining the playground, with its grandstands and shade trees, thronged by hundreds of baseball fans Saturdays and week-day evenings.

Deep-sea fishing, Gene declared, is his hobby. He remembered the thrill he got two years ago at Florida when he caught a 43-pound kingfish, largest of the season.

Narberth's Schedule
This Saturday, Bryn Mawr at Narberth.

Next Monday evening, Media at Narberth.

Tuesday, Media at 63rd and Haverford.

Wednesday, Kentucky Colonels at Narberth. The visitors, who are all Kentuckians, play in overalls. Several of them are college stars.

In the Main Line League Bryn Mawr and Brookline are tie for first place in the young second half, with two games won out of two. Paoli, Upper Darby and Berwyn have each won one and lost one. Narberth and Jack Hart's Vets have each won one and lost two. Darby has two goose-eggs.

Borough in Bat-Fest Downs Darby, 13-1

New Narberth Player, Nick Lyons, Makes Effective Debut

TWO OTHER NEW STARS

By JOHN MULLIGAN

Narberth came back with a vengeance Saturday, no doubt determined to get into winning form, and white-washed the lowly Darby nine, 13-1, after running a total of 17 base hits. The drubbing was meted out to Brud Tangye's aggregation on the Borough playground.

Even more pleasing to Narberth fans than the hits was the pitching of Nick Lyons, who until Saturday was a Bryn Mawr Choctaws hurler. If the former Redman can continue to work on the slab the way he did in this game some of Gene Davis' worries will be at an end. Lyons gave up just exactly four bingles, one being a triple by Gable.

What was more, Nickie sent eight back to the bench with their averages deflated via strikeouts and issued only three walks. We say "only" because Nick generally is very generous with the same and the reason isn't known to many. When Lyons was small he cut his hand badly and it left a large scar, so that now when the weather is chilly the hand tightens up and he loses control.

Another interesting sidelight to the game was the debut of Johnny Brennan and Dick Gallagher, two Borough boys. Brennan went in at shortstop in the eighth and, after playing a fine game, poled a double in his one time at bat, scoring later.

Relieving Johnny Long as catcher, Gallagher caught a nice game and seems about ready to take his turn behind the bat in Main Line League competition.

Getting back to the game, Ribs Rafter, considered one of the best semi-pro pitchers in Philadelphia ranks, was on the hill for Darby. Granted that he was easy to hit, nevertheless in defeat he gave every indication of being a good pitcher and the support he received was very poor, his team committing four errors.

Rafters had a total of six strikeouts and gave four passes to first base. His southpaw hook had plenty smoke and stuff on it, but the Davis-men were in a hitting mood and he had scant opportunity to stop them, handicapped by a poor defense.

Narberth tallied three runs in the second on Joel Rubincam's triple, Al Walker's free ticket, Harry King's single and the center fielder's error, which allowed two runs to score on the latter's hit. Howdy Powell's bingle later brought in King with the third marker.

After Barney Slaughter added one in the next on a home run blast, the Davis-men, with Barney's double helping out in the fifth, added two more to the growing figures. One run each in the sixth and seventh prepared them for a grand uprising in the eighth, when five tallies checked in at the scoring station.

Harry Francis started them off with a single, then Brennan slashed his sizzling two-bagger along the left field line to the road. Singles by Carroll and Mooney and a triple by Walker were the other main blows in this outburst of run-making.

Darby's lone run was scored in the sixth. Gable reached first on an error.

Playground is Scene of Great Activity

Tennis Tourney is Next Week; Pool to Open Under Close Supervision

264 IN DAILY SPORTS

Baseball, tennis, basketball, paddle tennis, and pole vaulting are popular at the Narberth Playground as mid-season arrives. The wading pool will reopen next Tuesday, men's tennis tournament will commence next Wednesday, and — but here's the playground news as written by several of the leaders of activities:

"Wading pool will reopen Tuesday. The pool will be filled between 3 and 4.30 P. M. Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. Parents are advised not to send their children to the pool if there are any blemishes on the body, as they will not be allowed in. Children are carefully examined before being allowed to enter."

"The men's tennis tournament will get under way Wednesday evening, and play will continue Thursday and Friday evenings. Entry list will be found on the gate of the courts. Any resident of Narberth, 19 or older, is eligible to compete. Your name must be entered by Monday, 2 P. M., as the draw will be made and posted on the gate of the court Monday evening.

"The pole vaulting pit is proving very popular, and boys of all ages are trying out their skill with the long pole.

"Attendance for the past week: 102 in the morning, 162 in the afternoon; average of 264 a day participating in activities."

Nearly 400 Visit Shibe

On Thursday, the 22nd, the boys and girls of Narberth were guests of John Shibe, Jr., at Shibe Park. Over thirty cars (for which the playground management wishes to thank their owners and drivers) took the children there. Nearly 500 people from Norristown delayed us, filing through the gate, but we were only a few minutes late. Joe Bosone, Rinkle Nelson and Carl Blessing were the lucky ones to get balls."

"On Tuesday Ardmore came to Narberth with both a baseball and basketball team. Narberth lost by one run on the diamond, but turned the tables at basketball, by one point. Next Tuesday they will meet Narberth again on the Narberth court."

"Gladys Sabrovich eliminated Betty Kriebel in a slugging battle of Paddle Tennis.

"Betty Kriebel won the first set, 7-5, but Gladys Sabrovich increased the pace and ran out, 7-5, 7-5.

"Both girls play almost the same type of game, driving hard from the base lines. Each employed superb forehand shots during most of the match, and kept the spectators guessing as to who would be the winner.

"The entries for the tournament were as follows:

"Peggy Walzer, Rita Horgan, Gladys Sabrovich, Myrtle Gregory, Nancy Donahue, Anna Roessler, Ingeborg Thaysen, Lois Maltby, Betty Kriebel, Alice Callahan, Emily Hoffman, Mildred Morrison, Norma Hoffman, Anna Brennan, Ethel Voight and Emily Edgerton."

"Our new project, the Serpentine Bowls, are useful as well as decorative."

Purse Bandits Make Another Petty Haul

Gain $2 in Daring Narberth Hold-up; Cynwyd Traffic Aids Escape

UTZ UNABLE TO FIRE

Main Line police are up in arms and seeing red, as a result of a series of daring hold-ups perpetrated, it is believed, by a couple of youths. They steal cars, snatch purses, and make hurried exits before the police can catch up with them.

Wednesday afternoon they stole a car in Penn Wynne and drove over to Narberth. On Western Haverford avenue their progress was blocked by ditches. They turned up Dudley avenue and paused to hold up Mrs. Willard L. Marr, of 107 Dudley avenue, who was on her way to a Narberth store. They bruised her wrist, snatching a purse containing two dollars and a drivers' licence.

One of the laborers paving Haverford avenue at this point ran two blocks to Narberth's business section and called Officer Brady Utz. Charles Haywood, of the Richards Fisher Ford Agency, in Cynwyd, drove Utz in hot pursuit of the bandits up Dudley avenue to Montgomery, and along the pike to Old Lancaster road.

Utz was just near enough to fire, when the car in front swerved to the left at the turn in the pike, and was screened by other cars. Haywood followed it along Montgomery to Bryn Mawr avenue and down that street to Union. Here the bandits, who by now had gained considerable headway, turned left on Union and from thence made a getaway.

Last week Sergeant Wentz pursued two bandits, believed to be the same pair, firing at them at City Line and Bala avenue. They crashed into a tree at Bala avenue and Pembroke road, Cynwyd, cut through T. Harry West's property, stole his car from its garage, and drove off safely toward Philadelphia, abandoning the car, badly damaged, near Robin Hood Dell.

Within the past month several other exploits have been committed by purse snatchers in this section, including a robbery at the Narberth Station, and the hold-up of a homeward-bound servant one afternoon at Wynnewood road and Elmwood avenue, the south side of Narberth. Illustrating the character of many of their escapades, their haul consisted of her purse, containing bus fare and eight cents.

Health Center Reopens

The Narberth Child Helath Center held in Elm Hall will resume its regular sessions 2 P. M. next Wednesday. The Center has been closed for the past three weeks as a precautionary measure during the Narberth infantile paralysis scare.

Rained Out

Main Line ball games washed out by the rain early Wednesday evening included Darby-Bryn Mawr, Berwyn-Paoli, and Brookline-Upper Darby, in the Main Line League, and Cynwyd Firemen and Roxborough Black Sox and Narberth and Cuban Stars.

Vets Down Boro

When Narberth lost to Jack Hart's Veterans Monday evening, the 4-1 score was due to nice pitching of Johnny Jackson. The first-half champs tried hard, but were fooled by Jackson's tricky change of pace. Graham did a good mound job for the homesters.

Want B. M. Bank to Open Ardmore Branch

Petition Circulated by Ardmore Professional and Business People

CITE NEED FOR SERVICE

Plans to provide some sort of banking facilities for Ardmore were revived this week when the State Banking Department ordered the Counties Title and Trust Company, Anderson and Montgomery avenues, Ardmore, closed Tuesday morning.

Realization that Ardmore was now without a bank of any description stimulated the talk of financial reconstruction. The immediate need of a branch or small bank to handle the daily currency transactions of the community was stressed in discussions of residential and business groups.

A petition was in circulation among leading merchants and professional men requesting that the Bryn Mawr Trust Company entertain a proposal to establish a branch bank in Ardmore.

The petition was worded as follows:

"Ardmore is now without a bank. Unless immediate provision is made for the daily commercial transactions of the community merchants will be seriously handicapped and business will suffer permanent impairment. In order that proper and adequate banking facilities may be provided at once signers of this petition request directors of the Bryn Mawr Trust Company to consider a proposal to establish a branch banking office in Ardmore."

Unofficially officers of the Bryn Mawr Trust Company stated that they would give such a petition "full consideration" in as much as many of their patrons are already residents of Ardmore. Final endorsement of such a plan, it was pointed out, would have to come from the State Banking Department.

In addition, to the circulation of a petition for the establishment of a branch bank, discussion was afoot again for the formation of a new, small bank with capital derived partly from influential Main Liners and from Philadelphia banking interests. This discussion, however, seemed rather superficial and showed no definite signs of crystallizing into action.

Plans to organize a new banking group were considered by the Bank Committee of Bullock-Sanderson Post, American Legion, and the Main Line Depositors' Committee, but were abandoned when it became evident that the capital was not available or the project advisable.

Collect Back Taxes

Satisfying at Norristown of liens on 39 Narberth properties has resulted in collection of $2562.15 in old taxes recently, according to a report which Clarence Kaerber, chairman of Narberth Borough Council's Finance Committee, will make at that body's meeting August 8.

Narberth Quarantine Ends This Saturday

Infantile Paralysis Cases Recover, Returned to Homes

PERIL BELIEVED OVER

Narberth's emergency measures to prevent infantile paralysis contagion are no longer necessary, according to Dr. George A. Sloan, president of the Borough Board of Health. The quarantine in effect since July 8 will be lifted this Saturday morning.

Reported fully recovered are Albert C. Ettore, 4½ years, of 325 Woodbine avenue; Mary Mariana, 3½, of 316 Woodbine avenue, and Norma Marcozzi, 255 Ionia avenue.

The first two children's infection, discovered before actual paralysis had occurred, led them to be sent to the Bryn Mawr Hospital's isolation ward immediately for laboratory study, June 27 and July 3, respectively. They responded so favorably to treatment that they were recently removed to their homes.

Norma Marcozzi, the only other case to develop, was sent to the hospital July 8 and is so well recovered that she is expected to be returned home, freed from quarantine, before this week ends.

Measures ending now, and affecting Borough children under 18 since July 8, included the closing of secular and Sunday School, and wading or swimming pools, and excluding of children from the library, motion picture theatre and summer sessions of Lower Merion High School.

No new cases have been reported, according to Health Officer George B. Suplice, and with all physicians keeping watch for further symptoms, it has been decided that the quarantine may now safely be lifted. It was originally announced that this would not be until August 1, which is next Monday.

Heavy Deposit Drop Speeded Bank Close

Counties Title Said to Have Shrunk $214,000 in 25 Days

REALTY LOSSES HEAVY

Heavy slump in deposits, and losses sustained in realty ventures and other investments contributed to the failure of the Counties Title and Trust Company.

This information was supplied by two directors after the State Banking Department had ordered the Counties Title and Trust Company closed Tuesday morning. The bank opened as usual at 9 A. M., but at 10.45 A. M. it closed on order of Dr. William D. Gordon, State Secretary of Banking. It is understood that any deposits made Tuesday morning will be returned.

Ledyard Heckscher, president of the closed bank, is motoring in France. Before he left for Europe, it is understood he backed a rejuvenation scheme whereby stockholders were to contribute further to the maintenance of the bank.

Charles V. Brown, special deputy of the State Banking Department, has been placed in charge. Mr. Brown said yesterday there is no statement to be made now regarding the bank's condition.

As the banking cornerstone of the North Ardmore realty development the Counties Title and Trust Company opened for business April 9, 1927. On the Board of Directors were some of the most astute financiers Philadelphia has known in commercial circles. The same group was interested in promoting a similar development in Jenkintown. Allied enterprises in the North Ardmore tract were the Times Medical Building, The Main Line Daily Times, the construction organization, the Suburban Company, and other business building projects. Many of the officers and directors of the various projects were interlocking.

Although the trust company was asked to prepare a statement in June it was not made public. The latest available statement is of condition at the close of business December 31,

Ounce of Prevention

Narberth's handling of its infantile paralysis problem occasioned two types of comment:

"Only three cases, and all declared so slight that they are out of quarantine already. . . . Just shows how easy it is for people to get hysterical, with news items in the papers and establishment of a quarantine, as if there had been a real epidemic!"

And this:

"The borough authorities deserve credit for taking no chances. By preventing gathering of children at this warm period when playmates of the three sufferers could easily have carried the contagion, the health board stopped what could easily have been a Main Line epidemic. Publicity helped warn people and also to reassure them. Many families had shown fear of shopping in Narberth, and many had taken their children away for awhile."

Narberth's health authorities, in addition to other measures, made a painstaking examination of all homes in the section where the three children lived. In this they were aided by Community Health and Civic Association nurses. Their extraordinary precautions deserve the approbation of every Main Line parent.

In the Mailbag

Says Old Red Lion Inn
Not So Old by a Century

To the Editor:

When other Main Line papers get things "balled up" I am not surprised, but when a real newspaper of the calibre of yours does the same thing I am surprised and disheartened to the nth degree.

Why do you say that the Red Lion Inn dates back to 1690 or 1700?

The Hon. Charles I. Landis, a former president judge of Lancaster County, wrote an article for the Pennsylvania Historical Society about the year 1918 on the subject of the Old Lancaster road, in which he stated that the Philadelphia and Lancaster Turnpike was not turned over to the public until about 1800, and that previous to that time the only road to Lancaster was the Old Lancaster road, now known as Montgomery turnpike, as far as the Merion Cricket grounds at Haverford; starting at 30th and Market streets and on to Lancaster via the Black Horse, at Bala, the Merion Meeting, Three Tuns at Ardmore, the Buck at Haverford, the Spread Eagle at Wayne, etc.

The Three Tuns evidently stood on the Windsor property opposite Smedley and Mehl's coal and lumber yard at Ardmore, and was doubtless the forerunner of that alive and progressive village.

When the Old Lancaster road was succeeded by the Philadelphia and Lancaster Turnpike, the Red Lion was probably built as the successor of the Three Tuns Inn, or shortly after 1800, for the reason that the Three Tuns was not on the turnpike but on the old road some hundreds of feet north of the line of travel on the Philadelphia and Lancaster turnpike.

A Quaker who traveled the old Lancaster road about 1760 speaks of the Three Tuns Inn as being about 1½ miles east of the Buck Tavern, and also gives the correct distance from Merion Meeting House. — See "The Welsh Settlement of Pennsylvania," by Edward Browning.

Yours in the spirit of truth,
"OLD FOGGY."

Shreds & Patches

Exhibitionist Mother

Among life's little ironies is the common and amusingly disconcerting experience of hastening to answer a ring of the doorbell in confident expectation of finding there a friend, only to be greeted by some total stranger who has emerged out of the unknown for reasons best known to himself and usually pertaining to his own desires. Such was the recent experience of The Vagrant, who was confronted by a tall and seemingly youth, who said in effect, "You are Mr. Vagrant, I believe; I am Theodore Endicott." His name admitted him promptly, for his father and The Vagrant were good companions many years ago and still are whenever their paths cross, which is now quite seldom. This Theodore had grown from infancy to married manhood since The Vagrant had seen him. The call from that young man was a source of great satisfaction and of some secret pride to The Vagrant, who supposed in his vain way that the son had come because the father had sent him, and had possibly endorsed The Vagrant as being some one worth knowing and talking with. Later all that was shattered when the young man's mother said over the telephone. "I am so glad that Theodore found time to call on you; I wanted so much to have you see him." So that was it; to have me see him.

Raffling a Quilt

A group of girls in a certain town made last winter a bed quilt of unusual beauty, with the intention of selling it at the annual fair of their church. They knew the worth of such things, both antique and modern, and priced that quilt at full value. The result was that, although it won much praise, no purchaser appeared. Near the close of the bazaar the girls asked the minister's wife if they could dispose of their quilt by means of "chance tickets." The permission was granted and the quilt was speedily sold for more than the original price. But the incident developed much criticism of the minister's wife for having permitted the raffle, and The Vagrant was finally dragged into one such discussion when he was suddenly asked, "What has a lottery got to do with morals and why are there laws against gambling?" He could not answer.

Is Gambling Immoral?

In Maryland betting on horse-races is not only permitted, but is legalized and the State participates in the revenues therefrom as proper compensation for keeping such transactions on the level. Did anyone ever have the feeling that he had entered a region of inferior moral standards when he crossed the Maryland State line? Do Maryland people show signs of progressive degeneration? In England, realm of the late Victoria and fountain head of many of the inhibitions which are now universally described under that queen's name, there appears to be now pretty complete freedom of various forms of betting and of chance, but the English people seem to be holding their own wherever moral backbone is required. With The Vagrant himself the desire to win is never quite so strong as the fear of losing, and thereby he seems to be immune from the gambling enthusiasms which afford many men so much pleasure; but he could not perceive, when the question was put to him, wherein "taking a chance" on a bed quilt or on a race horse or even in a great lottery has anything to do with personal morals. Let those who can prepare to defend themselves, for if this depression continues, a legalized lottery, as a convenient and pleasant way of raising public funds, may be seriously advanced by people of the Twentieth Century whose ideas on such matters will be much different from those which caused lotteries to be outlawed in the past century.

The Forum

As mentioned in The Spectator column last week, "Our Town" will this summer publish letters not exceeding 500 words, concerning national issues and personalities, with the proviso that space preference will be given communications that are cool: heated arguments must not be encouraged, while mid-summer temperature prevails; they should be reserved for cool October.

Editor, "Our Town:"

As a source of diversion during the hot weeks preceding the campaign, The Spectator suggests some activities in the "Forum" of "Our Town" of a political flavor. He has a quiet way about him of issuing an invitation or presenting a challenge which is, at times, difficult to disregard.

Fortunately, as we Democrats see it, there seems to be no insistent urge to stress our side of the argument, as most people have been sufficiently "wised" up in the last ten or twelve years, and particularly the last two or three years, as to need very little instruction. There is harmony in the Democratic camp, and, with all the straw votes showing such a tremendous swing to Roosevelt and Garner, it all seems too good to be true.

To one who has been a consistent Democrat for more than thirty-five years, present indications of success for the principles of Democracy, from a party standpoint, are most pleasing. It should be pleasing as well to the great army of voters classed as Independent, for they are going to help put a stop to the present "straddle" policies on every national question of consequence, political, social and economic.

We Democrats who have clung to the old party of "Equal Rights For All and Special Privileges For None" through these many years of prodigious governmental expenditures, Teapot Dome swindle, and countless scandals of a similar nature, welcome all former Democrats and Independents who were lured by the glittering promises and great "engineering" exploits they heard tell of by radio, boiler plate and other methods of administering prosperity predictions, back into the Party of Destiny — the Democratic Party.

We are glad to welcome Senator George W. Norris, Hiram Johnson, Gene Tunney, Connie Mack, and all the other good fellows (a lot of them here in Narberth); even his Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania, who would likely be more comfortable to have both feet on the same side of the fence; yes, and General Smedley Darlington Butler is likely to make a bit of noise when things begin to warm

Narberth Theatre Notes

Celebrating the lifting of Narberth's infantile paralysis quarantine, the Borough theatre this Saturday at 2.30 offers its evening feature, "Huddle," plus George O'Brien in "The Gay Caballero," plus "On the Loose," a Thelma Todd-Zasu Pitts comedy. This Friday and Saturday night "Huddle" is offered for entertainment, telling of a penniless laborer who wins a Yale scholarship; Ramon Novarro, Una Merkel, Ralph Graves and Madge Evans give a good performance.

Joan Crawford, Robert Montgomery, Nils Asther and Lewis Stone are interesting in "Letty Lynton," coming to Narberth next Monday and Tuesday. There's an unpleasant murder, but as a whole the picture is very enjoyable, especially at the end, when Lewis Stone clashes wits with the others.

At the Egyptian

Drama and comedy of universal appeal is afforded in "When A Feller Needs A Friend," the new Jackie Cooper and "Chic" Sale picture at the Egyptian in Cynwyd this Friday and Saturday nights. Accompanying it is a new funny Charlie Chase comedy. Both films will also be shown at a bargain matinee, 2 P. M., this Saturday, in addition to Tom Mix's first talkie, "Destry Rides Again," an exciting Western story.

"Westward Passage," the Ann Harding cinema, coming next Monday and Tuesday to Cynwyd, is an intelligent screen version of the play, with an ending so true to life that it will surprise many of those unfamiliar with the plot. It is a bit more sophisticated and joyous than other Ann Harding vehicles.

"The Tenderfoot," next Wednesday and Thursday, brings Joe E. Brown in a hilarious comedy of life in the great out-of-doors; rated better than most of Brown's performances.

Aided by a good cast, the comic Wheeler & Woolsey pair are highly amusing in "Girl Crazy," due at the Egyptian next week-end.

A large attendance listened with interest to an informal talk by Mrs. Griscom on innumerable varieties of wild flowers and plant life.

For many years Mrs. Griscom, who has traveled extensively through the West, British Isles, and Scandinavian Countries, has gathered together a rare collection of wild flowers, which she exhibited to the members.

It was announced that the next meeting of the club will be held two weeks hence at the residence of the president, Mrs. John A. LaFore, "Penn Valley Farms."

Grandmother's Garden

All of us, at some time or other,
have tried to produce an old fashioned flower garden that would rank as a worthy rival of Grandmothers, of years back.

Weeks of patient work and study
would always result in a conglomeration of gorgeous blooms of many varieties, that kept her home well supplied with flowers of a thousand hues.

How consistently she watered her charges. Never failing attention rewarded her efforts. In the suburbs PURE SPRINGFIELD WATER, free of chemicals, and injurious substances are helping many Grandmothers to garden successfully.

Events in Brief

During last Friday's storm, lightning halted a bridge game at J. Howard Pew's home, Knowlbrook, near Mill Creek, Ardmore; it struck an aerial, followed a lead wire into a second-floor bedroom and set curtains on fire. Mr. Pew, president of the Sun Oil Company, ended the blaze with a hand extinguisher after about $100 damage had been done, and before the Merion Fire Company arrived.

"Depression Blues" will not be on the program of community singing starting 8.15 P. M. this Friday at the Radnor High School auditorium. This is the first of a series of rallies similar to those of the World War, planned by Wayne organizations "in the interest and uplift of the community in these days of distress and depression. All Main Line residents are urged to join in singing songs of cheer, love and patriotism."

Walter Drurey, superintendent of the F. Woodson Hancock, Jr., "Sun-wood Farm," Valley Forge, was drowned Monday in vain attempt to save 1-year-old Woodson, who was beyond his depth in cold St. Regis Lake, Northern New York. Mrs. Hancock nearly drowned, but was rescued by Boy Scouts, after she had plunged fully clothed into the deep water.
Woodson's 9-year-old brother, Charles,
aided by calling for help.

"America is most prosperous when operating under a high protective tariff," W. C. Byers, Villanova, member of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, told the Pottstown Rotary Club last week. "Despite popular belief," he said, "England has not been a free trade country and is even less so now. . . . Three groups seeking a low tariff here are the importer, who undersells; the chain stores, who receive pottery and glassware from abroad, and the international bankers."

Attending the annual convention of Pennsylvania Chiefs of Police at Reading this week are Chiefs Charles
P. Smith, Samuel Siegle and James Lafferty, of Lower Merion, Haverford and Radnor.

With a gallon and a half of alleged liquor, four men and four women were nabbed by Lower Merion police under Captain Mullin and Lieutenant Duke, 2 A. M. Tuesday, in a bungalow on River road, West Manayunk.
Neighbors had complained of a would-be all-night drinking party. The alleged proprietor, who gave his name
as James Logan, 27, of Philadelphia, was held under $500 bail for court
by Magistrate Meredith, in Ardmore.

Major Clement B. Wood, solicitor
for the Lower Merion Board of Education, is among 26 Philadelphia First City Troopers near Mount Gettna recovering from ptomaine poisoning as a result of eating chicken salad last Sunday. He ate sparingly and suffered only slightly. A former commander of the troop, Major Wood,
has been School Board solicitor here
for years, and lives in Lower Merion, near Conshohocken.

Eradication of Philadelphia slums
was advocated recently by Victor D.
Abel, 18 Narbrook Park, Narberth, vice-president of the Philadelphia
Chapter of the American Institute of Architects. The plan would relieve unemployment by providing for construction of low cost housing, under limited dividend corporations,
made possible by the recently passed national legislation.

Zigzag driving on Lancaster pike, near Ardmore avenue, led to the arrest of Charles S. Howard, Lincoln Court, Overbrook, and Taylor Roberts, Racquet Club, 1.45 A. M. Monday. Howard was held in $500 bail by Magistrate Meredith, and Roberts was fined $16 for being drunk and disorderly.

The Narberth Child Health Center
held in Elm Hall, Forrest avenue, will resume its regular weekly sessions beginning Wednesday, August 3, at 2
P. M.

The center has been closed as a precautionary measure following the occurrence early in July of several cases of infantile paralysis. As no more cases of this disease have developed,
the Board of Health and the Health Center physician feel that it is safe for the Health Center to be open.

Wins Scholarship

Miss Ruth Little, daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. John J. Little, of 6366 Woodbine avenue, Overbrook, is the winner of a scholarship at Manhattanville College, New York. She was a student at Sacred Heart Convent, Overbrook.

By ROBERT J. EDGAR

Very thorough weather.

When it's dry it's very dry.

When it rains the clouds burst.

But the beetles are not so numerous as in former years.

Now is the time to plan the hardy spring garden of next year—while the past spring is still fresh in our memory. Those peonies that we saw and noted should be ordered for September planting. Irises to be ordered for immediate delivery. Old iris clumps to be divided now. Seeds of perennials and biennials sown. Tulips, narcissi, species crocus, scillas, Chiono-doras, eranthus and snowdrops to be ordered for fall delivery. Madonna and Regal lilies to be ordered for fall planting. Perennial plants for spring flowering are better when set out in September. In fact, the entire hardy garden may be made, or re-made, in fall. Just as the fall-flowering garden can be all planted in springtime.

"Success in The Garden Is Measured By the Thoroughness With Which the Preparation Has Been Made," Author unknown, but spoken by a very wise man. We cannot fool the plants. Thoroughly made beds, deeply dug, filled with clean soil, well drained and well graded on the surface, will grow plants satisfactorily for a long time. Provided, of course, that the situation is suitable for the plants chosen. Most of our spectacular perennials demand full sun, these are the plants that give us garden effects and flowers for cutting for a short season. Foliage and all season effects are not considered.

It is in shaded situations that the plants of real character may be enjoyed. The hemlock, our finest native evergreen tree, is a lover of shaded situations. Our own rhododendron and laurel are at their best in partial shade. As a companion we find the native azalea nudiflora, the pinkster flower, early and gay in the woods.
The sorrell tree, in flower now, is gorgeous in its fall coloring. The white dogwood, our finest small tree in spring, summer, autumn and winter, is of the woodland. The shad-bush is as well liked by the birds as the dogwood and is the first to flower in spring. The evergreen wood fern and the Christmas fern are evergreen most all winter in shady places. Is there a daintier plant anywhere than the maidenhair fern? Hepaticas, anemones, bloodroot, trilliums, woods violets, shooting stars, Jack-in-the-pulpit, Solomon's seal, squirrel corn, wild geranium, columbine, tiarella,
blue phlox, baneberries, mertensia, Solomon's plume, thalictrums, polemonium, corydalis, moccasin flower, yellow lady's slipper, black snakeroot, woods golden rod, closed gentian and woods asters are among the plants that may be enjoyed in shaded situations—provided that the soil is properly prepared to keep them thriving to move such treasures into ordinary clay garden conditions is nothing short of criminal. The list seems endless, but the same principal of gardening prevails—proper preparation—with of course, some knowledge of the conditions under which the plant grows naturally—selecting the right situation and preparing thoroughly. Watchful care, as in any gardening, is as necessary with "wild" plants as with "tame" ones. It is probably lack of appreciation, as well as lack of knowledge of growing them in cultivation, that makes the wild plants wild.

A garden without water does not seem to be a garden at all. A pool in which plants reflect their shadows—or one in which fish and water lilies are at home. Or maybe a little stream and a water-fall with rocks and plants around. The cool sound of falling water and the joy that the birds find with their drinking and splashing and drying on the branch of a nearby tree or shrub. Simple joys for the birds and ourselves, but just the little things that help to make life worth while.

of "Spring Song," the new play by Bella Spewack, which will open at the Hedgerow Theatre in Rose Valley
Saturday night, August 6, and make the 87th production in the repertory.
Although the particular situation of the play is bound up with Jewish tra-springtime and love gives it an appeal that is irrespective of creed. The principal roles in this premiere will be interpreted by Laura Rosenthal, Mildred Lewis, Miriam Phillips, Edward Ginsburg and Jesse Oser.

St. John Ervine's "The Ship" opens the week this Monday night. "The

George Bernard Shaw, is the perfor-

Villanova to Start a Coaching School

Harry Stuhldreher, Dick Hanley
and Dr. Carlson Will be in Charge

Exponents of two widely different football systems have been engaged to conduct the first Villanova College Summer Coaching School, which opens on August 24 and closes September 3.

Dick Hanley, dynamic Northwestern University head coach, famed for his Warner style of offense and defense, and Harry Stuhldreher, All-American quarterback in the days of the "Four Horsemen," will conduct the football lectures.

Still another feature is the basketball school which will be supervised by Dr. H. C. Carlson, successful head coach at the University of Pittsburgh for many years.

For the last six years, Hanley has conducted one of the biggest football coaching schools in the country at Evanston, Ill., on the campus at Northwestern, but this is the first time Dick has ever invaded the East to impart his knowledge of the old and new Warner system to coaching pupils. Another innovation is the bringing together of the Rockne and Warner systems for the first time in an eastern collegiate coaching curriculum.

Hanley, member of a famed family of football stars that includes Mike, member of the University of Pennsylvania staff, started his career at Washington State College as a quarterback. His name is known from one end of the country to the other. While coaching the Haskell Indians, the Redskins gained national prominence. For the last two years his Northwestern University teams have gained a tie for the Big Ten Championship.

Hanley and Stuhldreher have made a close study of the new football rules that go into effect this fall. Actual demonstration of the changes are to be made on the playing field of the Villanova stadium while the lectures will be conducted in the spacious new college gymnasium which was dedicated last spring.

Dr. Carlson rounded out ten years as head coach of basketball at Pitt last March. As an undergraduate in 1914, '15, '16 and '17, Carlson played football, basketball and baseball at the Western Pennsylvania institution, captaining the football and baseball teams in his senior year. He was a member of the famous eleven which Glenn Warner put through three seasons undefeated, beginning in 1915.

As the Rockne and Warner systems prevail in football, so is the famous "Carlson System" known and respected in college basketball. Perhaps the greatest record ever achieved by a basketball team occurred in 1927-28 when the Carlson coached Panthers, including the incomparable Charley Hyatt in the lineup, compiled the remarkable record of scoring twenty-one straight triumphs.

Low tuition and living expenses are a feature of the Villanova Coaching School and all enrollments should be made through the Registrar or Harry Stuhldreher, Villanova College, Villanova.

WILL OPEN MONDAY

New Branch Office for Philadelphia
Saving Fund Society

The oldest savings bank in America is opening the most modern banking office in America. Starting next Monday, the central-city depositors of the Philadelphia Saving Fund Society may make their deposits or withdrawals in the heart of Philadelphia's shopping district, at the corner of Twelfth and Market Streets.

The bank is on the second floor of the modernistic skyscraper, which is now being completed for the Society by Howe and Lescaze, well known architects. The same men have planned the banking room, which is 13,000 square feet in area and has 280 feet of counter space. Five different colors of marble are used on the walls, ranging in color from yellow to jet-black, as well as bronze, brass and stainless steel. The ceiling is of white acoustical mullite, made interesting by a rich brick-red where it shields the indirect lighting fixtures.

The most striking architectural feature is a single enormous window extending the entire length of two

A New Central-City Branch of The Philadelphia Saving Fund Society WILL BE OPENED ON MONDAY, AUGUST 1

The new Central-City Branch of The Philadelphia Saving Fund Society, located on the second floor of the Philadelphia Saving Fund Building at Twelfth and Market Streets, will be opened for business on Monday, August 1.

The location for this new community savings bank was deliberately selected for the convenience of the Society's depositors who use the central-city district. As Philadelphians now know "Seventh and Walnut" as the Society's Main Office, so will they know "Twelfth and Market" as the Society's Central-City Branch.

The public is invited to inspect the modern banking room—reached quickly and easily by escalators, elevators, or stairways from the Market Street entrance.

4p. They can all help us to get the U. S. A. back to where it belongs, and that is in the hands of the people, not in a selected ruling class, as at present.

It is natural for the great mass of the common people to adhere to the Democratic Party because of its doctrine of equal opportunity. On the other hand, Republicanism would elevate a small portion of the citizenry by special grants and privileges, as the record plainly proves, and as this group become extremely prosperous and powerful, the little fellows below would make out fairly well, because the prosperous ones would take care of them. This has been quite successful in a political way, and many thousands have become Republicans in order to stand well with some one higher up, or because they believed their job depended upon how they voted. I have never been able to subscribe to the latter system.

The big job for all of us, however, is to get out of the Hoover panic—considerately called a depression—as quickly as possible. It can best be done by electing a Democratic President; let's do it, and give him both branches of Congress as well.

The Counties Title made a quiet bid for the banking business of Ardmore, following the closing of the Merion Title and Trust Company. Limited capital for expansion deterred progress in this direction, although it is reported over a thousand new accounts were opened.

As runs the story of the Merion Title and Trust Company crash there is another rumor woven about the Counties Title closing that a Philadelphia institution failed to come through with promised backing at the critical time. It is said the bank needed only $100,000 to tide it over, but was unable to present a good enough financial statement to warrant raising this amount.

Another report is that on July 1 the bank's deposits were $389,000, and that when it closed, 25 days later, it had lost $214,000 in deposits, coming down to $175,000.

Frequent changes of officers and directors of the bank had considerable to do with the loss of depositors' confidence.

The institution had no connection with any other Main Line bank.

The Merion Fire Company team won, 8-5, over the police in a game at the Cynwyd school grounds Tuesday. The same night, Bryn Mawr's firemen nosed out Narberth's, 5-4, in a fast-played game at Bryn Mawr.

Watson pitching for the Vets allowed 10 hits, while Heckle and Daubert and Thompson for the Boys' Club allowed 13 singles. Thompson, who relieved Daubert in the ninth inning, was responsible for the winning run in the eleventh, hitting a high fly to right field to score Lentz.

at the keystone and scored later on Foster's single.

Howdy Powell, returning after a case of illness, stepped out to lead his club with the willow, collecting three hits, one a double. Slaughter was the long distance leader with a homer and double, while Walker and Brennan also hit for two bases. Joel Rubincam only had one, but that went for a triple, while Gable had the same for the visitors.

Powell played a fine game at second base, accepting four chances cleanly, and being credited with three putouts.
